

BSSVD

The British Society for the Study of Vulval Disease

Join us and help make a difference

The BSSVD is a society dedicated to the study of vulval disease.

The society welcomes applications for membership from any health professionals with an interest in vulval disease. Currently members are drawn from a number of specialties including gynaecology, dermatology, genitourinary medicine, sexual health, social science and histopathology. Reduced rates are available for allied health professionals and trainees.

Objectives of the society:

- The relief of suffering for patients with vulval disease
- The promotion and funding of research into vulval disease
- The education of health professionals to promote high standards of care for patients

Benefits of membership include:

- Regular communications about latest news, research, training events, BSSVD conferences, other relevant conferences/meetings
- Reduced fees for our annual study days and scientific conferences
- Members-only website area with a wealth of educational resources
- Participation in education and curriculum development groups
- Networking and support from colleagues
- Eligibility to apply for research grants and educational bursaries

How do I join?

It is easy! Just go to the membership page of our website www.bssvd.org where you will find instructions.

Visit
[www.bssvd.org/
join-today](http://www.bssvd.org/join-today)